WEBSITE

Amrita Patel Centre for Public Health is a venture dedicated to our former Chairman, Dr. Amrita Patel. Dr. Patel was the first lady executive of Amul, then the first woman Managing Director, and finally the Chairman of the National Dairy Development Board (NDDB). She is a passionate community health professional deeply concerned about the health of the rural poor. Her entire life has been spent in the service of the less privileged and empowering them, especially the women of India.

She was deservedly conferred with the 'Padmabhushan' by the Government of India in 2001 for her contribution to the Indian dairy industry and animal husbandry, and the 'Indira Gandhi Paryavaran Puraskar' by the Ministry of Environment & Forests for her significant contribution to the field of environment. She has been on the list of the top Businesswomen of the year (listed by Business Today) consistently for five years and topped the list in 2008. She was also conferred with the prestigious Mahindra Samridhi India Agri Lifetime Achievement Award - the Krishi Shiromani Samman.

The Amrita Patel Centre for Public Health, a constituent institute of Bhaikaka University, Karamsad, offers well-structured postgraduate programs. The centre emphasizes holistic development through extensive field exposure across 150 villages in Anand and Kheda districts, along with hands-on training at a 1000-bedded NABH-accredited tertiary care teaching hospital with advanced specialty centres.

Students further benefit from workshops, seminars, and academic events that build practical knowledge, teamwork, and management skills. Supported by excellent campus facilities, including a well-equipped knowledge centre, gym, yoga sessions, and the BLISS spiritual centre. Bhaikaka University offers a well-rounded environment for students to grow into competent healthcare professionals.
